This is how a minimal (non) working example looks like. The more minimal it is, the more likely you will get an answer. Remove everything from your examples which isn't necessary to show the problem:

- the page layout
- the font settings
- the title page
- settings that don't matter

Just a simple:

```
\starttext
    a dozen lines at most \stoptext
```

Like this:

```
\starttext
    an example \stoptext

where the question is "example question".

If you have a complex workflow, and more files are needed, make a zip and put it somewhere to download.
